- Ping G2 Driver

Ping Golf recently introduced their newest driver, the G2 Driver. The new driver features a 460 cc head design with a precision-milled variable thickness face and variable sole thickness that combines to create a lower spin rate and higher launch angle for optimal distance and forgiveness. The G2 driver is available in lofts of in lofts of 7.0°, 8.5°, 10.0° and 11.5°. The G2 driver is available standard with the TFC 100D graphite shaft, designed with a proprietary dampening material that removes undesirable vibration for enhanced feel and performance in every flex. Additional standard shaft options include the Aldila NV 65 and Grafalloy ProLaunch 65 graphite shafts. Ping also offers the G2L (women) and G2EZ (men) drivers designed for players with slower swing speeds. Both the G2L and G2EZ feature 15.5° of loft in a 400cc head to assist in creating the optimal trajectory to maximize distance. The G2 drivers are available September 1st with a suggested retail price of $350 each.

- Mizuno MP-32 Irons

Mizuno unveils its latest forged iron, the MP-32. The new iron features a "Cut Muscle" cavity design where the club head's weight is strategically redistributed in order to create a consistent sweet spot location throughout the set. A specific amount of weight is removed (cut) from the blade (muscle) head shape and moved to establish a precisely placed center of gravity in each club. This design promotes a controllable and predictable ball flight while maintaining a solid feel. The MP-32 is available in right and left hand models standard with True Temper Dynamic Gold S300 and R300 steel shafts and Golf Pride Tour Velvet 58 Round Grips standard. Suggest retail pricing for the 3-PW set is $1,099. Right hand sets are available in September with limited left hand sets available in February of 2005.
