- Sonartec MD Transition Hybrid Club

Sonartec's Md Transition hybrid club has gained the spotlight recently with Todd Hamilton's use of the club in his recent Open Championship win. The Md Transition hybrid is designed to replace the 1, 2, 3 and 4 irons. The club features Sonartec's patented Driving Cavity and allows a penetrating ball flight off the tee and the ability to land softly on the green from clean fairway lies and on long par 3's. The Md sits square and has no offset, making it a club that appeals to players of all abilities. The high-end custom UST iRoDTM shaft was developed by Sonartec and UST to maximize the performance of the Md. It is the shaft of choice of PGA Tour players who use the Md in tournament play. Available in lofts of 17, 19, 21, 23 degrees with a suggested retail price of $199 each in graphite.

- Cleveland Sport Series Woods

Cleveland Golf recently introduced the new Sport Series driver and fairway woods. The Sport OS driver and fairway woods are designed for the player who consistently fights hitting weak fades or slices. The 410 Sport OS driver features a 410 cc all titanium clubhead with generous offset and a lightweight graphite shaft which helps to promote a high drawing ball flight for increased distance and control. The Sport OS fairway woods, made from 17-4 stainless steel, are designed to compliment the Sport OS driver, giving players of any level the confidence to hit consistent, high and accurate approach shots to the green or off the tee. The Suggested Retail Price for the Sports Series driver is $250 with the fairway woods listed at $175 and they are currently available.
